

BUSINESS LAW (LLM)

Professional growth is key to career advancement. The Master of Laws (LLM) in Business Law is a post-JD master's degree program designed for attorneys hungry for greater opportunity. You'll build your insights through interaction with faculty, legal thought leaders, jurists and business professionals.

Knowing what's important to the business community will enhance your learning about regulatory and transactional practice and help you develop advanced skills for advising corporate clients.

Curriculum

Beginning each fall, you can complete the program in just one year on a full-time basis and in two years on a part-time basis. Courses are offered at Loyola's Water Tower Campus. Or, you may choose to take select online courses, after consulting with your advisor.
