

LLM PROGRAM FOR INTERNATIONAL LAWYERS (LLM)

In today's legal world, lawyers are increasingly engaged in international and cross-border practice. We admit only a select small group of students and focus on providing you with the tools to succeed in the US and global legal arena. Loyola's faculty are noted researchers, inspiring teachers, and engaged advisors who deeply care about their students' progress.

Outstanding lawyers from over 55 countries have chosen Loyola to boost their career with a master's degree. Individualized academic and career counseling, supportive faculty, and access to Loyola's worldwide legal networks are just a few benefits of our LLM Program for International Lawyers. Your educational experience and intercultural skills will be further enhanced through full immersion in our welcoming and diverse community.

As a Loyola student, you will study with leading researchers and practitioners in the same doctrinal, upper-level, and skills classes as your U.S. peers. You may choose to complete one of two tracks:

Curriculum

You can choose to start the program in the fall semester (mid-August) or spring semester (mid-January). The program is designed to be completed within one year, but you may complete the program part-time over up to two years. Flexible curriculum options include our weekend-program and evening classes that allow students to continue their employment while completing the LLM degree.

You will enroll in two mandatory classes that are designed exclusively for all international LLM students to introduce core concepts of the U.S. legal system and legal research and writing methods. We work with you to select the courses that suit your academic interests and professional goals best.

Track 1: Immersion in U.S. Law

Designed for foreign lawyers who seek to develop an expertise in American law, the rigorous curriculum immerses you in the foundations of U.S. law and legal thought and provides a thorough training in legal skills critical to advising clients in the U.S. or globally. The students in this track plan to sit for a bar exam and/or pursue a legal career in the U.S.

Track 1: Immersion in U.S. Law Courses

The curriculum for Track 1 is designed to include the core courses currently required by the New York State Board of Law Examiners for foreign lawyers obtaining an LLM degree. While we provide you with the required courses to satisfy the eligibility and admissions requirements to sit for New York's and select other bar exams, we make no representation or guarantee that any student or graduate of our LLM Program for International Lawyers will be qualified or eligible to sit for the New York or any other state bar examination.
