

INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS (BBA)

The BBA in International Business degree at the Quinlan School of Business prepares students to excel in positions involving global trade and commerce. We offer the business and communication skills needed to compete internationally.

The major combines courses in international accounting, marketing, economics, finance, management, supply chain management, some international political science choices and cultural anthropology choices with foreign-language study. A study abroad (<http://www.luc.edu/studyabroad/>) experience is required for the major.

The program draws on the resources of Chicago, which is a center of global commerce, including some of the country's largest venture capital firms, the Chicago Board of Trade, Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Chicago Board Options Exchange, corporate headquarters, and Fortune 500 companies.
